the resolution. The romantic side of this mission in Rome is disappearing. The thought that it was Rome, with all her prestige, her bistory, has stirred our hearts in past days; but now we look at that field only in the light of our Lord's commission. In that light Italy was only one of the world's fields. But while he did not see the same prominence in the Roman mission as Paul must have done when Roman thought Paul must have done when Roman thought and Roman power governed all, yet it is an important field.

No report could do this speech justice, but it is the general opinion that it was the chastest and most eloquent speech made up to this time. Dr. Kerloot, though a young man, occupies the important pulpit which Dr. Richard Fuller filled at the time of his death, and bids fair to be one of the most prominent of our southern ministers.

Rev. A. E. Owen, D. D, of Virginia,

A motion was made devoting to-night to a mass-meeting to discuss the best way of encouraging general interest in missions. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. J. W. Carter, of West Virginia; Rev. C. C. Chaplin, of Texas; Rev. J. C. Hiden, of South Carolina; and Rev. S. Baykin, D. D, of

There was a mass meeting to night to discuss the question how best to cultivate enthusiasm about missions among the masses.

place of Rev. A. Boylsin, and Rev. J. W.

The former decried the evil of speech-making, and gave an excellent illustration of
it. Part of it was wise; part otherwise.
On motion the Convention adjourned to meet at Columbus, Miss., Thursday before the second Sunday in May, 1881.
Thus closed one of the most harmonious and profitable sessions of the Southern Bapand profitable sessions of the Southern Bap-tist Convention that have ever been known. The attendance was unusually large, many availing themselves of the opportunity to attend the Convention and visit the famous blue-grass country. The weather was un-usually fine, and the country and city could not possibly have shown off to better advan-tage. The universal sentiment of the visitors, as far as your reporter could learn, pronounced it "glorious."

The hospitality of the Lexingtonians was simply unbounded. Nothing was left undone that could contribute to the comfort and pleasure of the delegates. Kentucky hospitality has not suffered in name at the hands of the Lexington people. Other denominations than the Baptist assisted in entertaining the large crowd of visitors, and the vote of thanks by the committee was passed with unusual enthusiasm. To the committee of recognition and its ublantions. passed with unusual enthusiasm. To the committee of reception and its ubiquitous chairman, Rev. L. Burrows, is due the credit of having directed wisely and well the hospitality of the people. The people and that they are naturally economical of the East and South will not soon forget the Lexington people and the twenty-fifth session of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Give one of them a chance at your purse, and she'll dress so well that you'll be ashamed to go on the street with her in your three-years' old suit.

The excursionists were met in Covington by Rev. Dr. Baumes, the editor of the Baptist Review, who had secured for them free admission to the Zoo and reduced rates over some of the street-car lines. They scattered at once over the city, and improved nearly every moment until night fell in, seeing the sights and getting acquainted with the people. Several parties rode up through Eden Park, and came back delighted with the ride and the magnifectat views. Others went out to the bick delighted with the ride and the magmidecal views. By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Augusta county, Va., rendered at the November term, 1879, in the case of Porter and wife vs. Frazier, &c., and two other suits, we will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on SATURDAY ine 19th day of June, 1880, this CELEBRATED WATERING-PLACE.

For medicinal qualities, no waters in the "two Virginias" excel these. In accommodations and popular-patronage the celebrated White sulphur alone strusses the Rockbridge Alum. Seven hundred guests may be accommodated.

It is five miles south of Miliboro' depot, on the Chesapeake and Ohio rallway, in Rockbridge county, Va.

The TRACT contains about 1.000 ACRES,
It lies between North mountain and Mill mountain; and with its large and well-arranged HOTEL BUIL DING and COTTAGE RANGES it constitutes a beautiful group in a lovely valley.

Apart from its value as a summer resort, the sales of the water and alum mass would alone justify an investment at a handsome price.
